THE BANKRUPT LAW.

The House, during the past three weeks, was so agitated and anxious over the prospective reduction of its pay that the repeal of the Bankrupt law was rushed through without consideration. The Benate without doubt will so amend the bill so as to protect the deliver through the partice or will of a tect the debtors from the caprice or will of a small minority of creditors—the question of small minority of creditors—the question of involuntary bankruptcy to be determined by a majority of the creditors. The fees and expenses under the present law are so high that poor people cannot afford to the luxury of bankruptcy. This will be modified and made less oppressive. It is claimed by Senators that sellet will be afforded to both debtor and creditor classes by an equivable law which the Lower House failed to present.

ROBRING PETER TO PAY PAUL.

The different departments are now preparing statements showing the amounts expended for postage stamps since the abolition of the franking privilege. This will be compared with the expense under the old system and the grand result will show that the amount received by the Post-office Department has been paid by the other Departments, and that nothing has been saved to Uncle Sam by this process of showing his cash around among his immediate servants. The mooting of this question merely foreshadows BORBING PETER TO PAY PAUL around among his immediate servants. The mooting of this question merely foreshadows the re-enactment of the franking privilege in some shape by which members of Con-gress will not have to pay postage—that's all.

The next hardest thing to cutting down ones own salary, is to, for a government official to reduce the estimates for the Department Bureau or branch of government over which that functionary has c ntrol. Congress by resolution desires to know where the reduction can be made in the esimates for the next fiscal year.
